WEDNESDAY, OCT. 10, 1918.

Our neighbor of the Democrat, in his recent issue, has been very kind to hold the opinion that the question of whether or not the United States should go to war with Germany is a question of the right of the people to decide. This is a very reasonable view, and we are glad to see it expressed. We are sure that the people of this country will make a wise decision on this question.

A territorial people do not desire their people to be divided into two classes, one of which is to be the ruling class and the other to be the ruled class. This is a very reasonable view, and we are glad to see it expressed. We are sure that the people of this country will make a wise decision on this question.

The power to appoint and remove judges is a very important one. It is a power that should be exercised with great care and wisdom. We are sure that the people of this country will make a wise decision on this question.
